MORNING KEYNOTE: EMPOWERMENT

Empowerment. That feeling of confidence, of ownership over one's work and other activities, of control over one's career, life balance and personal journey. Every woman strives for it but few actually realize it. Join this year's keynote speakers for an in depth look at the keys to your empowerment success.

How can women support one another, at work and at home, in taking the bold and sometimes major risks toward a life of confidence, ownership and control? When is the optimal time, and what mechanisms can we use, to empower those we mentor and sponsor? Consider tools and techniques that successful women across all sectors have leveraged to empower themselves and their colleagues. If not NOW, when?

GENERAL PLENARY PANEL: THE ROLE OF MEN AS ALLIES

Our male colleagues play a central role in breaking the glass ceiling, collectively and individually, once and for all. Catalyst's study points out that in 2012, though women comprised over a third of the workforce in the United States, they held a mere 14.3 percent of executive officer positions at Fortune 500 companies and only 8 percent of executive officer top-earner positions.

To increase these numbers, men must sponsor us, open doors for us, and they must step up to the plate in bold, perhaps risky ways. Not just because we face gender barriers, but because women have exceptional leadership potential that will launch business operations to new levels. This panel discussion includes successful male executives who have leveraged social capital with each other to attain executive positions. It addresses the role of men as allies in cultivating and nurturing female talent in the workplace.

LEADERSHIP & EXECUTIVE DEVELOPMENT SESSIONS

The following workshops educate, inform, and generate fellowship opportunities through shared learning and discussion. They emphasize tools, and strategies that the participants can apply back at the workplace to overcome hurdles and soar personal and professional success. Witness business and community leaders present case studies and offer impactful solutions.

Executive Presence – do YOU have it?

According to the Center for Talent Innovation recent findings offer new insight into why less women make it to the C-suite. Senior executives surveyed stated that executive presence counts for 26% of what it takes to get promoted. Furthermore, nearly 60% of the surveyed said sounding uneducated negatively impacts the way others perceive you.

Women and racial minorities were found to struggle more with executive presence, likely because corporate culture has long been influenced by men. The findings also shows that 56% of minority-race professionals feel they are held to a stricter code, compared to 31% of white professionals. So, what is executive presence? Join this session to learn what it takes to build executive presence, and to identify key characteristics that YOU need to further develop.

Women's Mentoring Wisdom – Act with INTENT

Effective mentoring relationships are a definite asset to career advancement for women. BUT the key ingredient to the success comes from the mentee NOT the mentor. According to WOMEN Unlimited the three drivers to a powerful mentorship are:

- Intentionally preparing for the mentoring relationship
- Intentionally leveraging mentors' insights
- Intentionally building relationships

Join this session to identify the implications and opportunities of what your mentor relationship CAN be. Learn how to increase involvement with key players in order to build a “better line of sight” of the corporate big picture. Gain insights in how to become proficient at enhancing your visibility, and pinpointing the right risks to take.

9:30 am – 10:45 am PLENARY SESSION PANEL: 2014 WOMEN IN THE C-SUITE: STEM AND THE OPPORTUNITY FOR WOMEN

The future is NOW. Empowering girls and young women early on is key to positioning them for C-Suite positions. An education focused on science, technology, engineering and math (STEM), for example, better prepares girls for the careers and mindset that translate into executive jobs. Indeed, over the past decade, growth in STEM jobs was three times as fast as growth in non-STEM jobs (Girlstart).

What else can we do NOW to help develop and shape the leadership capacities of our young, rising female stars? What can teachers, parents, mentors and coaches do to bring out their strongest potential? What is the most successful education track for them to take to become a CEO?

Join a panel of experts for an in-depth look at techniques and strategies that we can employ with our young girls and women to prepare them for success in the corner office.
